

Visit to the World's Largest Shipyard, International Maritime Industries (IMI)

Firstly, Thank you for nice meeting with All International Maritime Industries (IMI) Staffs.

We highly appreciate it.

JSMEA is implementing initiatives to develop new markets while gathering information on new technologies. This is to contribute to the global maritime industry, encompassing not only general merchant ships but also the offshore sector, by providing Japan's outstanding marine equipment.

As part of this initiative, on December 8, 30 representatives from 15 member companies visited the newly established International Maritime Industries (IMI) shipyard in Saudi Arabia, the world's largest shipyard.

The visit included product promotion and an exchange of opinions.

Representatives from IMI, including Abdulaziz Sabri, Senior Vice President for Operation Service, along with members from the Engineering Team, Procurement Team, and others—totaling over 10 participants—attended.

The meeting proved highly productive, facilitating an exchange of views on each other's new technologies, products, and services.
